

The connector protector

PRESS RELEASE

Contralube 770 – Now available in selected Maplin shops.

July 2010 – Contralube 770, was launched in the Autumn of 2009. Being a specialist product it was initially only available through a small number of retailers the biggest of which was Maplin Electronics. Maplin took the product on but initially it could only be ordered via their website.

As the word has spread about the superb performance of this specialist electronic connection protection gel, sales have increased month after month. As a result of this ever increasing demand, Maplin purchasing staff have now decided to make Contralube 770 available to purchase in all Maplin retail shops.

Contralube is recommended for use with multi-pin connectors, spade, bullet and any other type of push fit electro mechanical contact area. The problem – vibration corrosion, oxidation, intermittent circuitry faults/gremlin problems, water penetration and general weatherproofing issues. The solution is Contralube 770.

“As a relatively small manufacturer, this is a big deal for us” Contralube say. “I hope the product continues to exceed our and customers expectations.”

Contralube 770 is available in Maplin shops; visit one of their stores and ask for product code N73HL or order online. More info on contralube is available at www.contralube.com
